SYNOPSIS

After the police officers responsible for the death of their eldest son are not charged, the Washingtons, and their 2 remaining children Will and Kimmy, receive some hope through a law firm called Help Wanted. Mourning their loss, the Washingtons are coach and trained to embark on a vengeful journey on the people responsible for their sons murder.

The Help Wanted law firm is a front for a company that offers an alternative approach when the justice system fails, and racial injustice wins.

In this film we follow Will, a clumsy 17 year old, that's having a hard time with the way his family is dealing with his brothers death. After visiting Help Wanted, Will is certain his family is brainwashed and he is trying with everything he has to convince them.

Being new to killing, the Washington have gotten the attention of Detective Yates, who's starting to figure out the connection between the Washingtons and Help Wanted.
